

Charny Karpousis Altieri & Donoian, P.A. Supports BookSmiles and Its Efforts to Improve Youth Literacy Collecting and Donating Gently Used Books for Underserved Children in South Jersey

October 3, 2018 – Marlton, NJ – Charny Karpousis Altieri & Donoian, P.A. furthers its community commitment through its support of BookSmiles and its mission to improve youth literacy throughout Southern New Jersey. From now until the end of December, the firm will be collecting new or gently used books appropriate for children from infants through sixth grade.

Founded in September 2017 by Larry Abrams, BookSmiles has collected, sorted, and distributed over 75,000 books, giving underserved children in New Jersey the opportunity to build personal libraries. The non-profit organization focuses on developing literacy skills at infancy so that children can read before kindergarten. BookSmiles also provides educators with free books for their classrooms.

“We are all moms and it was alarming to learn the number of children who are growing up without books right here in our area,” partners Karen Rose Karpousis, Michelle Altieri and Nicole Donoian-Pody said jointly. “We are excited to become part of the BookSmiles team of literacy activists who by gathering and distributing children’s books can make a true difference in the lives of kids. We welcome all donations for this worthwhile cause.”
